Northland Collection

Northland is a Milton & King Studio collection inspired by untamed northern landscapes, where mountains, forests and waterways are shaped by wind, weather and time. Across wallcoverings, expressive mark-making meets heritage pattern, moving from abstract terrain and organic forms to checks, tartans and structured motifs.

Hand-painted and hand-drawn throughout, each design reveals the hand behind it, giving walls a tactile, artistic presence. A palette of walnut, ochre, olive, clay, stone and deep charcoal brings warmth and mineral depth, while monochrome colour stories offer a more restrained expression.

Large-scale repeats create impact, smaller patterns introduce rhythm and generous open space allows each design to breathe. Available on non-woven, with selected colourways also offered in grasscloth, metallic, decorative textile and vinyl, Northland invites you to create interiors that feel rugged, refined and connected to the natural world.

Zephyr

Inspired by the gentle breeze from which it takes its name, Zephyr Wallpaper explores the shifting qualities of light, air and atmosphere. Broad, sweeping brushstrokes travel across two rolls, creating an expansive composition with the presence of a hand-painted mural. Expressive marks are balanced by generous open space, allowing the design to feel bold without overwhelming the room. Its flowing forms bring movement and artistry to interiors, while the restrained palette gives the pattern a calm, enduring character.

Oxbow

Named after the sweeping curves formed by a river's changing course, Oxbow Wallpaper captures the fluid movement and organic rhythms found throughout the Northland collection. Free-flowing brushstrokes form an expressive repeat, with changes in weight and texture revealing the hand behind the artwork. Its rhythmic composition brings energy and movement across the wall, echoing the natural forces that shape the landscape over time. The smaller scale gives Oxbow an adaptable decorative quality for bedrooms, living spaces and commercial interiors.

Cascade

Cascade transforms the familiar vertical stripe through painterly movement inspired by flowing water. Hand-painted lines drift, narrow and widen across the design, creating an irregular rhythm that feels fluid rather than formal. The alternating marks bring depth and direction to the wall, with a subtle moiré-like effect emerging as the pattern repeats. Expressive yet versatile, Cascade introduces height, texture and natural movement while pairing easily with timber, stone and tactile textiles.

Alpine

Alpine Wallpaper distils mountain ridgelines, towering trees and remote forest landscapes into an expressive scenic design. Drawn with oil-stick character, the artwork combines loose silhouettes and imperfect marks to evoke the rugged beauty of the high country. A fabric-inspired surface texture gives the design the appearance of woven cloth, softening the illustrative scene and adding tactile depth. Alpine brings a strong sense of place to interiors while retaining an artistic, contemporary character.

Osier

Taking its name from the willow traditionally used in basket weaving, Osier Wallpaper reinterprets woven structure through a graphic, contemporary pattern. Alternating blocks of horizontal and vertical lines form a rhythmic grid, echoing the crossing fibres of handcrafted baskets and cloth. Bauhaus influence brings clarity to the composition, while irregular hand-painted marks soften the geometry. Osier offers an adaptable way to introduce pattern and texture, working beautifully as either a defining feature or a grounding design throughout a room.

Cairn

Inspired by the stone markers that guide travellers through remote landscapes, Cairn Wallpaper builds a geometric repeat from angular, interlocking forms. The design draws on lino printing and Bauhaus composition, balancing precise structure with the character of handmade artwork. Tonal shapes create a subtle sense of dimension across the wall, while the repeating motif brings order and architectural rhythm. Cairn is a distinctive geometric that feels equally at home in contemporary, rustic and heritage-inspired interiors.

Highland

Highland Wallpaper reimagines traditional tartan through a softer, more expressive hand. Broad lines cross in a generous check, with tonal variation and a fabric-like surface giving the pattern the warmth of woven cloth. Inspired by highland landscapes and enduring textile traditions, the design carries a sense of history without feeling formal. Its larger scale brings presence to the wall, making Highland a versatile choice for studies, bedrooms, living spaces and welcoming hospitality interiors.

Timber

Timber Wallpaper is a hand-painted check inspired by the enduring textiles and crafted surfaces associated with mountain living. Fine intersecting lines form a compact repeat, while visible brush texture gives the familiar pattern a relaxed, artisanal character. Its understated scale allows Timber to work comfortably across entire rooms, adding warmth and detail without dominating the space. Equally suited to classic and contemporary interiors, it offers a versatile foundation for wooden furniture, leather, linen and natural finishes.
